Silver-Gilt Standing Cup & Cover.

Bearing the Arms of the Company. Date 1611. Maker: F. Terry, London. Weight 41·35. Height 24 inches.

The cup stands upon a circular foot, with egg and tongue ornamentation, above which is acanthus leaf chasing and a balustrade stem, and above these extend three shaped scroll brackets with grotesque terminals; the bowl of the cup is egg-shaped and ornamented with chased work over a matted surface. The cover is decorated in the same manner, and is surmounted with a triangular spire of pierced work resting on three shaped brackets, surmounted with the figure of a knight holding in the right hand a spear, the left resting on a shield, bearing the Arms of the Company in pricked work. Round the upper edge of the bowl is inscribed: "John Reeve being M^r y^e second tyme made me For y^e use of y^e M^r Wardens & coi-altye of y^e Mistery of Freemen of y^e Carpentry of y^e Cittye of London for ever, w^thout charging y^e coi-altye then being," and on the foot is inscribed: "Wardens Tho Fawcon, Edward more & William Bonner."

1609. A.D.

Silver-Gilt Standing Cup & Cover.

Date 1609. Maker: F. Terry, London. Weight 31·100. Height 19¼ inches.

The shape, decoration and engraving, are similar to the Master's cup, except for the terminal of the spire being in the form of a spike, on one side is a shield with the Company's Arms, on the opposite side is a shield engraved with a merchant's mark (probably that of the donor); the inscription as follows is on the outside of the rim: "John Ansell having bene twice M^r of y^e Comp of Carpenters gave this to y^e M^r Wardens & Comlty of y^e Mistery of Fremen of y^e Carpentry of y^e Cittye of London Anno Do 1611."

Silver-Gilt Standing Cup & Cover.

Date 1613. Maker: R. S. Weight 28·400. Height 19½ inches.

The shape, decoration and style, are similar again to the previously described cup, and the terminal of the spire is a spike, on the baluster of the stem supporting the brackets are three masks. The cup bears the Company's Arms, and on the second shield is a monogram of the donor's initials, T. E., Thomas Edmones, and it bears the following inscription: "This Cup is y^e gift of Thomas Edmones, yongest Warden of y^e Companye of Carpenters & M^r Carpenter to y^e Chamber of London & one of ye four Vewers of y^e same Cyttie, Anno Dom 1612.
